A Race Fued

A bitter feeling exists between the Chinese and Piutes in Esmeralda and Mono Counties. In the month of March, 1886, a Chinaman left Rhodes Marsh for Belleville, and when about two miles from the latter place he was shot and killed by a Piute. This roused the ire of the Chinese who swore vengeance.

The fourth of July of the same year four Piutes were enticed into a Chinese wash house in Belleville and liberally dosed with whiskey. When they became drunk two chinamen threw coal oil over the walks of the house and set it on fire.

One Indian escaped but the other three were burnt to death. The two Chinamen barely got out of Belleville alive.

A short time afterwards another Piute was found dead in Candalaria.

The recent killing of Ah Quong Tia and Poker Tom at Bridgeport adds two more victims to the list.

The case stands now, two dead Chinamen to five dead Piutes.

He was for many years James Gordon Bennett's private secretary, and Paris correspondent of the Herald.

Mrs. Chretien is the lady who for the past two years has written the interesting theatrical "first nights" for the Examiner.
